HONGKONG, NOVEMBER 187, 1875.

In the Politing Gazette of the 5th ultimo a memorial is published which, as it relates to the Hoppo of Canton, may be of some interest to our readers. A Censor bad, it appears, brought an accusation against the Hoppo to the effect that grave abuses had arisen through his placing personal dependents in charge of collectorates. The Censor accordingly prayed that official delegates of the provincial government should be associated in the management of affairs with the Hoppo's underlings. The Decree in response to this observed that, where personal retainers are employed in the collection of duties, abuses may naturally be expected to arise, "and, moreover, that as questions relating to foreign trade have of late years come up in this connection, ofre in the discharge of duty is all the more requisite." An enquiry on to-day. and report was thereupon directed. Whether this complaint was the pretext for a "squeeze" or not it is impossible to say, though it would be no new things had it been Hoppo's predecessors have been made to disgorge a goodly portion of the wealth they acquired ut Canton, if not before their term of office had expired, on their arrival at Peking subsequently. The Hoppo of Canton has usually been regarded as one of several useful reserves on whom to draw for rang extra outlay in the Imperial Court, and when the need arises, a protext for the gentle com- ending September 30th, is published in Satur pulsion used to extract the money is never wanting. matter report that the Hoppo has always been in the habit of personally directing the management of the central collectorate at Canton. but for the out-stations, in view of the large amount of business to be attended to, he has been compelled to employ personal retainers as clerke and superintendents. The system the has adopted has been, it is stated, in force for some ninety years, and, when carried outunder rigorous checks against dishonesty, has proved very successful. Of late years, at the same time, it is pointed out, two new branch Custom houses have been established, one at Swatow and the other at Bak-hoi, in the Gulf of Tonquin, while opium-duty offices have been set on foot in districts of Sin-an and Hinny-shan, at all of which places official delegates are employed as superintendents. The memorial sts arrivo at the conclusion, which must be very satisfactory to the Hoppo, that he has adhered estrictly to the regulations he found in force on his appointment, and that he keeps a watchful eye for the prevention of all abuses. What is still more satisfactory to the Imperial Government no doubt, is the fact that the Adulteration Act for green faced tea. of late years the collection of the regular quota of duties has been accomplished in full, and even as regards the supplementary quota of 100,000 taels, added some time ago to the amount, a surplus instead of a deficiency has been shown." The amount collected under the head of opium duty is also largely in excess of what it formerly was, and the new collectorate at Bak-hoi yields upwards of 20,000 tacls. These results are considered to prove that the persons employed by the Hoppo discharge their duties without conniving at contraband dealing for their and the memorial therefore concludes with the recommendation that the existing system, having been found to work efficiently, be continued in force, of course, under effective supervision.

from the investigation ordered into his administration. And in all probability he merits on some account the enconiums passed upon his vigilauce and activity. There is no doubt the revenues have considerably increased under his management. It is natural they should. Self interest is a powerful motive for energetic supervision, and it has duly operated with the Hoppo. But though the revenue has been augmented and smuggling rendered more difficult by the protective measures adopted by the Hoppo. it is still underiable that many abuses of power, and some of them of a most serious nature, exist under his sanction. Not only does be maintain by the aid of his fleet gunboats and cruisers a regular blockade of due to him. Under the pretence that they were smuggling, heavy exactions. have also been made upon cargo boats and other small craft engaged in conveying girl named Lai Akin, in a boat at Shan-bi Wan, rovisions, &c., to Macao. Frequently, too these boats have been confiscated on the refusal of their owners to pay the black mail unscrupulously levied upon them by the Customs officials. It is likewise a known fact that in some instances junks have been compelled by the Hoppo's subordinates to alter their destination when it was Hongkong or Macao. All these abuses, however, are regarded by the Imperial Government in of the opening of an old wound. another light. They have no word of conthem with secret gratification. Next year the Americans will celebrate the Independence. They desire that the memory of this groat event should be associated with some imposing apectacle in the city where the priate, for the foundation of the Republic presents itself to the American people as the beginning of a new order of things for the world. at large, and, as everyone knows, an International Exhibition is assumed to be the material expression of human fraternity and goodwill. Moreover, an exhibition is a celebration very wall suited to the occasion and the people. Next year is the centenary of the nation's birth, and every citizen may feel a desire to take part in the commemoration. But a pageant which lasts but a single day and is celebrated at a single place can be witnessed by only a very small part of the population. There are, 45,000,000 people in the United States. The great majority would delight to join in any patriotio manifestation, and a considerable proportion-a proportion much larger than in European countries. - have the means of doing so. But they cannot all come to Philadephia at once on the 4th of July, supposing the most imposing solemnity to have been devised-for that occasion. They must be content to have their local celebrations, and to learn from the graphic pens of reporters what was done at Philadelphia Moreover there is a sameness in parades of militia and patriotic orations, and the Americans may desire to have something newer and more original. Now, a great exhibition on the very greatest scale will be a real novelty in American. There was once a so-called World's Fair in New York, but it was a comparatively unambitions attempt, and it was held a long time ago. If an international exhibition uniting all the excellences that have been displayed in London, Paris, or Vienna, and exceeding any European exhibition in size, multiplicity, audthe appliances for entertaining visitors, can be prorided for the year 1876, it is likely to cratifuthe American public exceedingly and to prove completely successful. They are 45,000,000, and Philadelphia lies in the most thickly-populated district. The City of Philadelphia itself contains 800,000 Inhabitants, and within a radius of 20 miles there are as many more. "There are 5,000,000 people within 100 miles of the Exhibition, and 10,000,000 within 200 miles of it. There are 70,000 miles of railway, and the population is one of greater mobility than any other in the world." " It is estimated that onetenth of the population will visit the Exhibition, and thousands will go again and again." Here, then, will be an entertainment, lusting for months, in which every one having a few dollars. to spare can take part, gratifying his curiosity, increasing his knowledge of men and things, and picking up a number of valuable notions, at the same time that he visits the crack of the Republic and takes part in a celebration the memory of which will ever linger pleasantly.

To carry this design into execution the Amefloans have set to work with characteristic energy, and the descriptions given by our correspondent abow that the work is further advanced than in the case of any similar enterprise in Edrope. But the constructions are so extensive, and some of them are planned with so ambitious a view to durability, that the time is certainly not too long for their due completion. The Exhibition is fortunate in havingsuch a site as Fairmount Park. It has been the wise precuation of the people of the United States to lay out their cities on a methodical plan which imparts regularity to their future progress, and in connexion with this has been the eastom of securing immense spaces as public pleasure grounds. Fairmount Park is traversed by the Schuylkill river; it contains 2.740 acres, and the city of Philadelphia has already speak more than $6,000,000 on it. In this magnificent tract is situated the area destined for the Exhibition. The grounds will cover about 236 acres, which are enclosed for buildings, besides which there will be other enclosures for the displays of Borges and other cuttle. At Vienna the area was 260 acres, including the space for horses. and cattle. The buildings at Vienna gave about 2,000,000 square feet of ground floor surface for exhibitors and covered 42 acros. There are now under contract at Philadephia 50 nores of buildings, giving 2,107,000 square feet of surface, and the applications for space are so namerous that this immense space will be insufficient. These comparisons will serve to show the scale on which the Exhibition is planned. It is to be bigger than that of Vienna, as Vienna surpassed anything that had gone before. There is to be a main Exhibition Buildibe, a parallelogram 1,880 feet long, 464 feet wide, and with un area of nearly 214 norse. Besides shis there is the Memorial Hall, intended to be a permanent building, 365 feet long, 210 feet wide, and with a dome 150 feet in height. This Hall will serve. chinery Building, the Horticultural Building. and the Agricultural Building are on the same magnificent scale and of elaborate construction. The description of these edifices will be of the highest interest to the architect, the builder; and the mechanician. It is sufficient to convince the reader that In the preparation for bouting the world's inventions and art the Americans are not likely to be behind any of the nations which have tried exhibitions before them.

It now remains to be seen whether the standard of the objects exhibited will be correspondingly high. It is to this point that the slightest regard to what is supposed to be furthered by an exhibition-scientific improve-

But with the bulk of ordinary cargoes from the East, it has been for some time admitted that the advantage of rapid transport is of more than doubtful value. At the present time, however, the too keen competition of steamship owners has removed the question to other ground. Rates of freight have been so greatly reduced by the eagerness of owners to obtain employment for their steamers at any san sacrifice, that the sarpings of a large proportion of vessels are not sufficient to cover their working expenses, much less, to meet interest on the capital involved in them. It needs but a reference to the quoted rules of freight in either of the chief ports of India or China to verify the accuracy of our statement. It is in vain that shipowners resort to expedients for obeapening the working of their vessels, but in the long run these usually react in a contrary direction; those who have had the longest expérience in such matters declare that the greatest comomy is to be found in the best coals, the best nautical instruments and cheats. and the most highly qualified men to use them. One heavy item of outlay is the present rate of marine insurance on steam vessels passing through the canal, which by reason of late casualties is now double the former scale, Within the last few years there bave been not. fewers than thirty steamers lost in eastern waters, whose value includius that of their cargoes amounted to four millions sterling-We do not besitate to say that two thirds of these gross from preventible causes reflecting on the qualification and care of their commanders.
